

Do you know if you have the right product in the right place at the right time? Can you accurately forecast your Days-on-Hand targets vs. actual inventory levels? Do you know your inventory position exposure to price changes?

CDM Inventory Manager

CDM Inventory Manager calculates your inventory levels at a part-level giving you near real-time visibility into your inventory position by product, by partner and by region. Calculated inventory can give you a truer picture of inventory levels beyond that which is reported by your partners. CDM Inventory Manager identifies the variances between calculated, reported and target inventory levels and our workbench gives you the ability to adjust those variances in near real time.

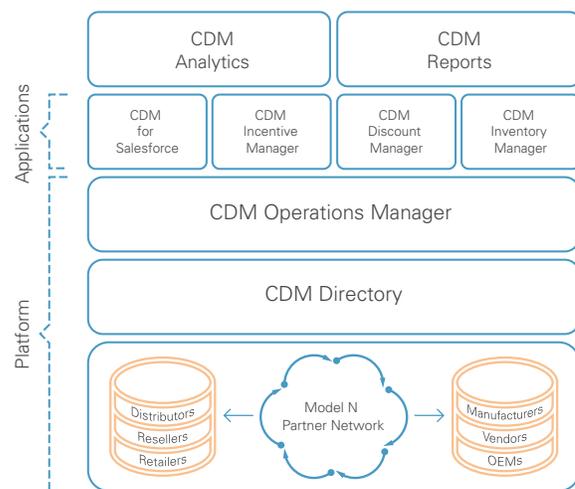

Minimize your financial exposure with CDM Inventory Manager. Make sure you have the right product, in the right place, at the right time.

Why CDM Inventory Manager?

CDM Inventory Manager is a module available within the Model N CDM application suite that provides informative dashboards, drill-down reports and a self-service application workbench to improve the return on your channel incentive programs.

CDM Inventory Manager leverages the timely, accurate and complete data from the Model N platform, which collects and cleans channel sales data from your partners. It is included with the purchase of the Model N CDM application suite.

Channel Data Management Solution

Our solution was designed in accordance with channel management best practices and yields financial-grade data quality.

Our cloud-based solution takes the guesswork out of channel inventory management. CDM Inventory Manager gives you a toolset for actively managing and resolving your inventory variances. Using the standardized and enhanced data available from the Model N platform, you can identify and calculate actual days-on-hand inventory levels. You can adjust your channel inventory position with near real-time tracking.

With CDM Inventory Manager you can reduce the liability of excess inventory and minimize your inventory reserve with near real-time, accurate visibility into your channel inventory levels.

You can also improve partner loyalty. As you know, your partners' most important metric is Return on Working Capital. With a limited amount of working capital, your partners need to make sure their funds are allocated properly; if they can't sell what they have, they can't buy more. CDM Inventory Manager provides the visibility and tools you need to effectively manage inventory in near real-time. Inventory management is the key to your increased channel profitability.
